The Annual Issue of Old Hughes

Hughes High School • Cincinnati, Ohio • 1933

Juncta Juvant

The Spirit of Cincinnati,—known throughout the nation! To that spirit, that desire for accomplishment, that feeling of cooperation, this book, the Hughes Annual of 1933, is dedicated. It has been a time honored custom to dedicate yearbooks to someone who has distinguished himself. But this year one achievement stands out emblazoned in the mind of every Cincinnati public school student. This achievement was made possible through the efforts not of one but of all true Cincinnatians. The achievement? Cincinnati, in the face of most direful financial troubles, has not deprived its youth of educational advantages—the most enduring treasure of life. With grateful hearts and with minds which will not forget, we of Hughes dedicate this Annual to the Spirit of Cincinnati.

Alma Mater

The golden gong has sounded,
Youth's sheltered hours are gone;
Four years within loved walls have passed,
Time's pendulum swings on.

Yet through the mist of fancy
Your Tudor tower will gleam,
And we will walk these cherished halls
In many a wistful dream.

As parapet and gargoye
In noonday sunlight shine,
So in our hearts there still will glow,
A light before your shrine.

Foreword

HUGHES is a chest filled with treasure, for life is treasure. So our Annual, which expresses the spirit of Hughes, is called a treasure chest issue. In it we find the beauty which has been about us throughout our days at school. Then, we come to the gem of fine leadership, so necessary if we in our turn are to become leaders. In our classes we have experienced comradeship with fellow pupils. The same spirit has prevailed when we gathered after school hours to follow our interests or hobbies. Again this year, Hughes has been represented with many fine teams in the field. We have chosen to call our athletic section sportsmanship, for sportsmanship is a goal finer than mere victory. The dramatic, musical, and literary efforts of the school have given a taste of aesthetic enjoyment. The class stowaway has written of the high points which he believed would be lasting memories of the year. Many honors have been brought to the school by the pupils and graduates. These achievements have been recorded. Humor is never lacking in a large school, nor should it be, for it is not only treasure but salvage for lost cargo. Co-operation has been granted us by our advertisers, and we thank them for it. Our treasure chest is filled. To those who succeed us we leave the task of gathering as rich a treasure as the class of nineteen thirty-three has found in their school life.

Leadership

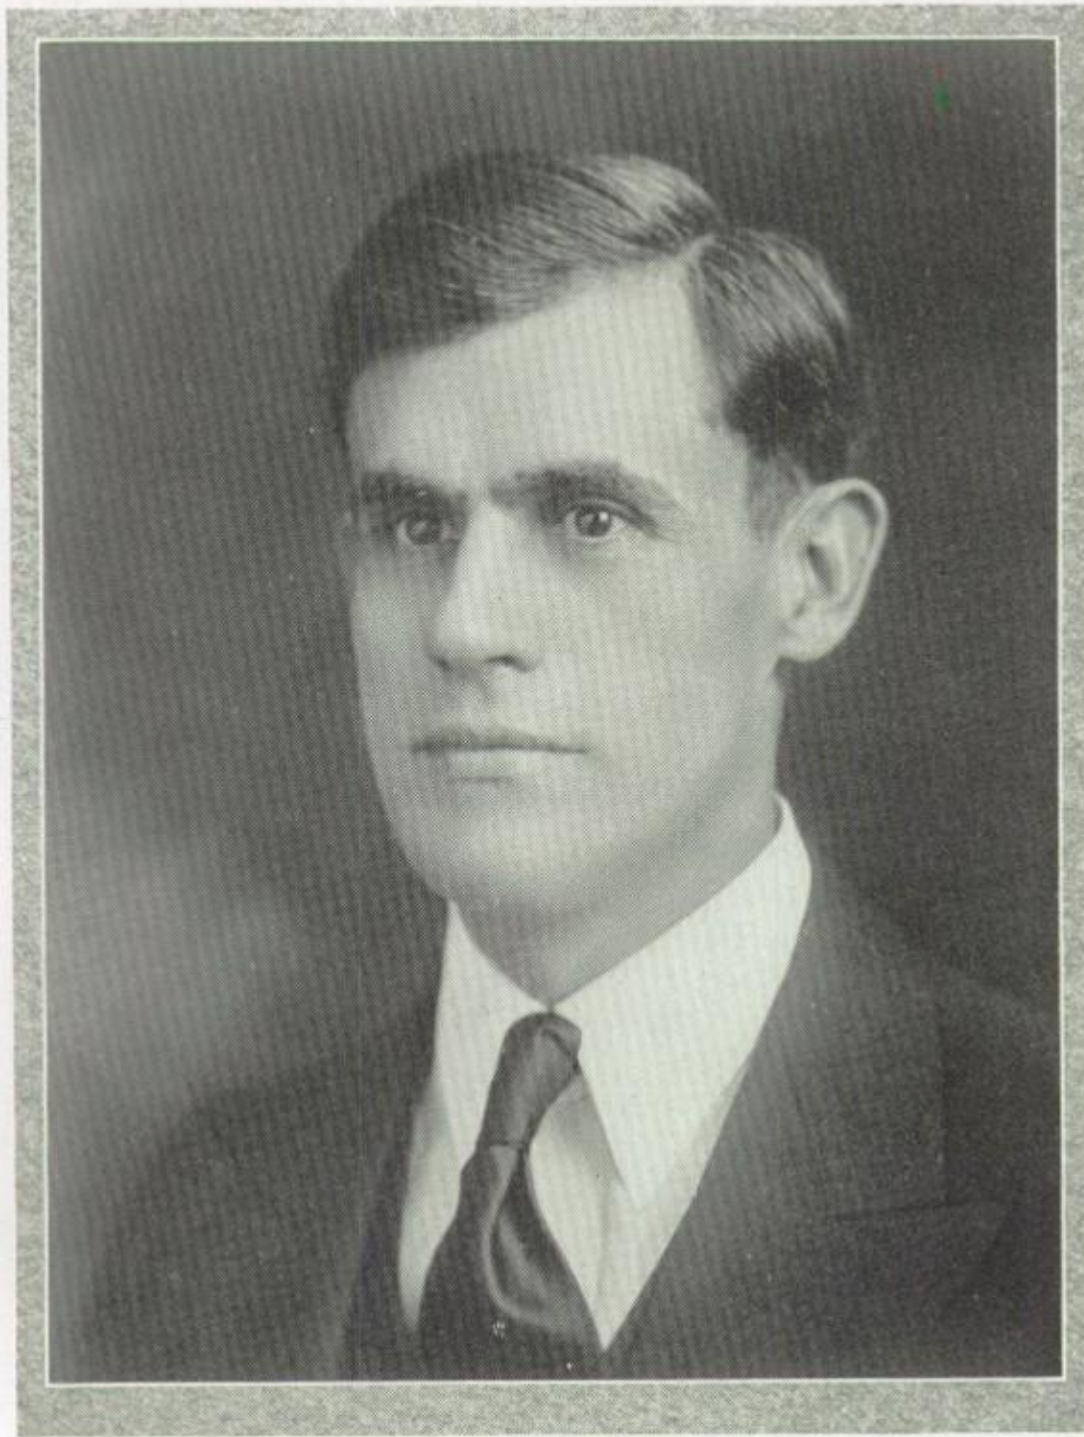

To the Class of '33:

Your whole high school experience, '29-'33, has been within the space of the great financial kaleidoscope of the world's history. Some of you have realized more than others the tottering standards, the great changes, and the unsolved problems. Your outlook today and your chances of success are vastly different from what they appeared to be when you entered Hughes High School. No one can peer far into the future. There are a few things, however, of which we are certain: happiness, however relative the term is to you or me, must be found, nurtured, and developed from within, and has no permanency when controlled from without. We are sure that the simplicity, serenity, and sincerity of Burroughs, and the philosophy, complacency, and compensations of Emerson have the seeds of more satisfaction for a contented life than have ever been offered by the bulls of the doctrine of inflation and chance.

We trust that a few intellectual seeds have been planted in the soil that is not too stony to produce moderation and satisfaction for the long run ahead of you. God's speed!

C. M. Mearns
C. M. Mearns

THE end of the road through high school is but a short space away. Whatever has made this road a pleasant and profitable one has to a great extent depended upon how you yourself have reacted to all the turns, the hills, and the valleys. Any guidance, any advice is but chaff before the winds; place your own valuation upon the following. May you have gained knowledge enough to give you poise, to hold you firm, when problems face you which you alone must answer. The length of your years matters little unless they have depth and width.

Elmer W. Kizer

*Go make thy garden fair as thou canst,
Thou workest never alone;
Perhaps he whose plot is next to thine
May see it and mend his own.*

Discovered treasure! The lust for gold! The romance of pieces of eight! But these are obscure riches. However, figuratively speaking, the Seniors have found their buried treasure after four years of industrious searching. The mere fact that they are seniors, that they are graduated, that they are alumni of Hughes, is treasure enough, not obscure but material.

That lordly creature, the senior, seems "monarch of all he surveys." Having found his treasure, he is a wealthy individual, and rich in the fact that he can be called a senior. Joyfully he faces the glory of class day and the supreme climax of graduation night. His dreams are limitless in their expanse, but like most dreams they pass in the night. Have the four years been years of honest endeavor? Have they been four years of useless play? What has he accomplished? What use can he make of his accomplishment? Realities, not dreams, now come into his experience. His discovered treasure is not material but obscure.

The mighty senior has set out on the road of life, to test the real value of his first steps. This much of his journey is complete, but the attainment of the last treasure, successful living, is the mystery of life.

The Junior Class

Officers:

PRESIDENT

PAUL SEEBOHM

VICE-PRESIDENT

BETTY FRANKLIN

SECRETARY

TREASURER

BOB SHINKLE

The Junior Class of 1933 now becomes the Senior Class of 1934. Beginning the year "as just another class", it developed into a closely bound unit. All that was accomplished as a class was done in the space of three short months following the election of officers in April.

The election was marked by a large assortment of candidates, enthusiastic supporters, and keen competition. After the election smoke cleared, the class approved its choice of leaders and began life as an organization.

The climaxing event of the year for the Juniors was the class dance on May 29 in the girls' gym. The dance committee, assisted by several members of the faculty, evolved many novel plans. The features of the program were the device of letting girls tag during part of the dance and the theme "Prosperity" used for decorations and refreshments.

On class day the Senior Class of 1934 assumed the responsibilities of the coming year.

Achievements

Alumni

Joseph B. Strauss, '88 — an engineer, designed the Golden Gate Bridge which connects San Francisco and Berkeley, California. This will be the longest single span suspension bridge in the world.

John Anderson, '25 — established a new world's record for the discus throw while representing U. S. A. in the Olympic Games of 1932 at Los Angeles.

Art

Alfred Boehme, '34 — was one of the prize winners in the art exhibits at the Boys' Hobby Fair.

Sam Lipson, '34 — was awarded grand prize for winning the most points in the Boys' Hobby Fair. He was largely responsible for the fact that Hughes won the cup.

Marguerite Kuehn, '33 — who is doing scholarship work at the Art Academy, is completing her course at Hughes in three years with high honors.

Dick Kohl, '34 — was the winner of a gold medal for his contribution "Abstract Action Designs for Advertising" entered in the International Art Exhibit.

Athletics

Marvin Cannon, '33 — was the winner of the greater Cincinnati High School Cross Country Track competition.

Roger Mohlman, '35 — took second place in diving at the State High School Swimming meet at Columbus.

Dan Merwin, '33 — established new records for both the mile and half-mile run at the City Track meet at Withrow.

Sam Stoller, '33 — broke the standing broad jump record at the meet in Oxford in a spectacular manner. He also took second place in the 100-yd. dash at Columbus.

Fred Hutchinson, '33 — won first place in the shot put at the district High School Track meet at Oxford.

The Track Team finished first in the District meet at Oxford and third in the State meet at Columbus.

Music

Virginia Schneider, '33 — who plays the tympanum in the Hughes Orchestra, was soprano soloist for the orchestra in the combined concert at Hughes and also during a radio broadcast advertising the Children's Symphony Contest.

Laura Christine Bowen, '34 — a girl of varied talent and pianist for the Orchestra, recently wrote a musical composition which took sixth place in a nation-wide contest conducted by the Golden Rule Foundation of New York.

John Beroset, '33 — the violin soloist for the Hughes Orchestra gathered together industrious members of this organization into a Senior Sage orchestra which he himself conducted.

Nelda Jones, '34 — was chosen delegate to represent the Cincinnati High Schools in the North Central Public School Music Teachers' Orchestra at Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Scholarship

Jack Franklin, '33 — the president of the Senior class, was the recipient of the Clark Scholarship to Yale.

Charles Copenhaver, '34 — won a medal in the district competition of a state-wide Oratorical contest and competed in the finals.

Miscellaneous Prizes

Stanley Leer, '34 — was one of the fortunate lads who won trips to the Olympic Games through the contest sponsored by the Kroger Company.

Warren Granger, '34 — was the winner of the electrical exhibit at the Boys' Hobby Fair.

George Juengst, '36 — won a wrist watch as second prize of his district in the Kroger Olympic Games contest.

Four Girl Reserves at Hughes succeeded in attaining the much coveted Girl Reserve Rings. They were Helen Dreidame, Martha Evans, Ruth Letzler, and Betty Franklin.

Honor Ratings for Old Hughes

The editors and staff of OLD HUGHES, the forty-five year old magazine of Hughes, again produced a prize-winning publication. For the second time it was awarded the much desired All American Honor Rating given by the National Scholastic Press Association, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. And after holding First Place for three consecutive years, it received what is regarded as a newer and higher honor by its donors, Gold Medalist rank, from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association, Columbia University, New York. The staff deserves enthusiastic approval.

Charles Krueck, '33—the Business Manager of OLD HUGHES, was made president of the Scholastic Press Guild of Greater Cincinnati (Student division). Miss Hazel L. Koppenhoefer, staff adviser of Hughes publications is president of the faculty section of the same organization. Cincinnati journalists were hosts this year to the National Scholastic Press Association.

Ohio River Flood

Cincinnati successfully combatted the flood waters of the Ohio River—the highest in many years. Hughes pupils had great difficulty in some localities to get to school.

The Honor League is a senior organization which sponsors fellowship between senior and freshman girls. Miss Julia Bentley, the sponsor, with the advice of the executive committee, provided many extremely interesting programs. The work of the Honor League began at the opening of school when the members acted as Freshie Aids. The club entertained the freshman girls at the first meeting and each senior girl received two Little Sisters. There were several interesting discussions, in the form of a question box, led by Miss Bentley. At another meeting, ancient manuscripts and rare bits of old printing were displayed and discussed by Mr. John D. Ellis. At Christmas time, Miss Bentley read a lovely story and some of the members presented a play in keeping with the season. At a later meeting the girls enjoyed a cruise to China which was led by Miss Melrose Pittman with the aid of pictures and Chinese costumes. Another month Dean Simrall of the University spoke to the members, introducing them to University life. After her talk, a tea was held in her honor. The delightful year was culminated with a party and entertainment for the Junior Girls.

The Hughes Club has had a very successful season, including many well-known men of the city among its speakers. All the speakers had messages of interests to students about to leave school. Among those who addressed the club were: Boyd Chambers, Dean Schneider, Sidney Weil, Charles Lee, Arthur E. Roberts, Lieutenant-Commander Sullivan, Dr. Moore, Paul Douglass, John Keena, William C. Devereaux, J. C. Myers. "Cap" Kizer gave his annual address and King Otis spoke before the club. For the first time since the founding of the organization, a woman speaker addressed the members. Mrs. Claude Lotspeich, mother of Edgar Lotspeich, gave an interesting account of her early life. Besides the speakers, there were several other programs of interest. A group of magicians consisting of Al Weber, Arthur Ehrmantraut, Tom Colter, and Gordon Henry; and the Home-Towners, a male quartette composed of Charles Mayleben, Warren Le Fevre, Carl Schmidt, and William Strohfeldt entertained the club. There were also the Father and Son meeting, the closed and open dances, and, as a conclusion to the club's activities, the annual hike.

The Hughes Y Girl Reserves with Miss Tangeman and Miss Hagemeyer as sponsors and a membership of one hundred and five, reached new heights of entertainment and cooperation. At the fall meeting a fashion show and style talk were presented. At Christmas time the members sent a number of baskets of food to needy families. The club also gave a Christmas party for some small children who probably had no other tree or gifts than those given by Hughes girls. Another holiday activity was the carol singing with the Hughes Club boys. This was followed by a dance at Y.W.C.A.

At the April meeting the club entertained members of the Withrow Girl Reserve Club with a treasure hunt. At the May meeting a lovely fashion show for the girls and their mothers was followed by a tea in the Teachers' Lunchroom. The club participated in many other interesting activities such as a Skating Party, a dance, the making of a scrapbook to be sent to China, and the collecting of clothes for needy Hughes Students. The Hughes Y activities opened new fields of usefulness and service to its members.

The Pep and Ginger Girl Reserves, living up to all that their name implies, started the year with many ambitious enterprises. Miles and miles were walked in the numerous hikes taken by the girls. Baskets heavily-laden with food were given to several needy families on Thanksgiving Day. The Christmas spirit of the members was shown when they treated ten little children to an entertainment and feast. A skating party was next on the program. The Community Chest was aided by their donation. A dance given by the Club for the Students' Fund was the final enterprise of the season.

The Hughes Hi-Y, an inner circle of the Hughes Club, under the capable direction of Mr. Charles Lee, has included in its programs interesting discussions on present day conditions, and open forums on the character of members of the organization. Procter & Gamble was visited by the boys, and the changes in employment and in working conditions wrought by the present economic situation were noted. In conjunction with the Girl Reserves a successful conference was held, and six delegates were sent from the Hughes Hi-Y to the Older Boys' Conference, in Columbus.

After a short business meeting in which the officers were elected, the Latin Club, under the sponsorship of Miss M. Julia Bentley, started on its way through a new year of highly entertaining programs. Through the enthusiastic cooperation of its members, the club was able to give an interesting and educational presentation of Roman life and customs. The programs consisted of a series of entertaining plays and lectures depicting incidents in the every day private and public lives of the Roman people. The feature of one of the first meetings was two plays: the first, a humorous sketch of a Roman school boy's meeting with the ghost of Caesar; the second, a presentation of an amusing incident in the lives of a typical Roman family. Realistic contacts with Roman life vitalized classical culture. The December meeting had a true atmosphere of Christmas. Stories were told, refreshments were served, and gifts bearing appropriate quotations in Latin were exchanged. At the following meetings, entertaining games, Latin songs, and talks were the highlights, until the final meeting which was composed of two Latin plays, a brief talk, and refreshments.

With Miss Louise Bentley as conseillère, the French Club of 1932-33 had a successful and enjoyable season. At the beginning of the year, acting upon the suggestion of Maxine Crigger, there were printed a number of clever programs which included the officers, the dates of the meetings, and the words of the "Marseillaise". The first meeting was a Hallowe'en meeting at which games were played and stories told in French. On the twelfth of December a most enjoyable Christmas meeting was held. The meeting room was beautifully decorated by Edgar Bohart. Christmas games were played and Christmas customs of the French people were explained.

There were bonbons and petits fours obtained by Marguerite Kuehn, upon whom depended a great deal of the success of the meetings because of her willingness to provide refreshments. At the meeting on April tenth, Miss Bentley gave an entertaining and instructive illustrated talk on her experiences in France and on the most interesting places in France. At the last meeting, on the eighth of May, a short pantomime was presented; there were refreshments; and at the conclusion, the members, their thoughts filled with memories of happy times together, bade each other "Au Revoir".

The German Club, known as Teutonia in the German circle of Hughes, endeavors to give German students a broad, interesting outlook on German manners and customs, German history, geography, and economic conditions. The German Club is affiliated with the Germanistic Society. Its activities as a club received national praise.

During the year, the Club was fortunate to hear Rabbi Wohl, who had recently visited Germany, speak about the present political disturbances there. Another interesting meeting was a visit to Germany by way of motion pictures.

In accordance with the customs of Germany, Christmas was celebrated by singing German Christmas songs and having presents stacked high around a "Tannenbaum." Some enthusiastic members of this club organized both a girls' and boys' quartet who entertained the club at several meetings. Other school talent was used to produce a very humorous play given entirely in German under the direction of Miss Martha Kitzman. This brought to a close the year's activities under the able sponsorship of Mr. Bergman.

"Se abré la sesión!" . . . thus the meeting of "La Tertulia" was opened the first Monday of each month. The purpose of the club was to give the Spanish speaking pupils a chance to become better acquainted with the Spanish language, customs, and thought. Enthusiastic members and their sponsors, Miss Helen King, Miss Margaret McCleod, and Miss Mabel Schell, presented amusing plays and colorful programs. A delightful imaginary trip through Spain was made on one occasion under the guidance of Miss Helen King. Miss Cherry Greve of the Cincinnati Art Museum lectured on Spanish art.

The Math Club devotes its programs to the discussion of mathematical topics for which there is no time in the class room. The informality of these discussions lends a friendly atmosphere to the meetings. This year the program included fascinating talks by Mr. Elmer Kizer, Mr. Robert Ager, and Mr. Charles Siehl, enthusiastic sponsor of the club. The student talk which will probably be remembered as the most delightful was "Our Wonderful Universe", by Emanuel Isralsky; but all programs will be recalled as being carefully prepared and well presented. Mathematical intricacies were ingeniously explained.

With "The Ocean as its theme for the year, "Old Hughes" launched a fleet of seven vessels on the tossing sea of '33. "Commerce on The High Seas", "Yule Tide", "Pirates", "Navy", "Bottom of the Sea", "Fishing", and "Traveling", portrayed by appropriate stories, poems, and art work, comprised the November to May issues. Several new and interesting departments were added to the table of contents: "Cameos", a department containing the pictures and activities of prominent Hughes students; and "We Congratulate", a column in which the outstanding deeds of students were recorded.

The various department captions were arranged to fit the nautical theme: the staff—The Crew; editorial comment—Log; honor roll—Star Fish; exchanges — Cruiser; interviews — Whale Hunters; word sketches—Cameos; athletics—Man-of-War; fine arts—Sea Gull; book reviews—Treasure; and humor—Periscope. These were most artistically represented at the heads of the various pages. In March the Columbia Scholastic Press Association of New York awarded "Old Hughes" a gold medal for ranking medalist in its class. This signal honor was followed by the All American Honor Rating conferred by the National Scholastic Press Association of Minneapolis.

The editors of "Old Hughes" were aided in publishing the Annual issue by a group of students known as the Annual Board. The Senior Class selected, on November seventeenth, Maxine Crigger, Edith Ann Elliott, Martha Evans, Al Schilling, Jack Seyffer, John Stevenson, and Sam Stoller as members of the Board. This group met twice a week to discuss plans for making the Annual a distinctive and worthwhile memento of Hughes High School. Willing cooperation was given by the faculty, the art department, and the student body of the school.

The Gargoyle, named in honor of the many grotesque figures which decorate the outer walls of Hughes, was founded by the Juniors, immediately after the mid-year exams in 1928. Its purpose is clearly stated in its slogan, "All News of Hughes". This year the Gargoyle appeared with a new caption. Another feature has been the "Best Sellers", a column giving credit to those Home Room Representatives who sold the most copies of the paper. The "Gargoyle" picnic, which was given in Sayler Park, climaxed a successful year.

Unusual opportunities have presented themselves to the Home Economics Club this year. The club co-operated in the local relief work by preparing food for flood sufferers, aiding at Red Cross stations, and contributing toward the school Christmas Fund. The outstanding meeting was the Christmas party for the mothers of the members. A play showed the value of balanced food and well planned time. A fashion show (in which the girls wore the dresses they had made) and musical and recitative selections completed the program. Miss Ruth Helman is sponsor of the club.

The Salesmanship Club aims to focus the attention of the aspirant club member upon sales ability and advertising accomplishments. With the splendid leadership of Miss Mary McSurely, the group has had distinguished salesmen of high caliber who spoke words of wisdom concerning salesmanship. The most prominent event of previous years has been the customary banquet given in collaboration with the alumna association of the club. This year a "good ol' camp party" furnished entertainment for the members and alumna guests on June third.

The new club, Vox Pop, which derives its name from the Latin phrase Vox Populi, the voice of the people, had a very interesting year discussing current political issues. Under the supervision of Mrs. Persons they heard talks and had discussions on topics of the day, such as the prohibition question, the presidential election of 1932, the plight of the American farmer, war debts, world peace, Hitler and Germany, Mahatma Ghandi, and the economic situation. The splendid enthusiasm of its members, and the active participation of its sponsor were responsible for a successful year.

The Philatelic Club, in the third year of its existence, has enjoyed a most successful season. The custom of former years, which has been to devote the dues to obtaining first day covers for members, was continued; and members of the club this year received first day covers of the Webster, Penn, Oglethorpe, Newburgh, and World's Fair commemorative issues. Various speakers addressed the club during the year on topics of interest to all collectors, and auctions were held at the bi-monthly meetings for all those who desired to buy or sell their stamps, or effect an exchange.

The creative writing class, sponsored by Miss Bertha Evans Ward, has accomplished many things during the 1932-33 season. The major portion of literary contributions to "Old Hughes" were products of the Scribblers' pens. Six of the nine English Club Contest awards were captured by the Scribblers. Writing for this group in past years has offered students such excellent training that many former Scribblers have received literary honors at the University. Practice in writing, criticism of one's manuscript, and frequent revision are the club's objectives. The discriminating encouragement of the group and the sponsor bring out latent abilities in individual students.

The Hughes Riding Club has completed the third year of its existence with a membership exceeding that of earlier seasons. Although the weather was uncertain and spoiled many of the rides that were planned, the members gained valuable information at the club meetings. Mr. Raymond Fell, who is himself an able rider, gave many instructive talks on horsemanship. Mr. Fell and members of the Hughes organization worked with students from Western Hills and helped them to organize a similar club. The members closed the year with a trip to Lexington where they visited stock farms and had an interesting and educational day in the famous thoroughbred region.

CHARLES M. MERRY

Honorary Member of all Hughes Organizations

PATRON, ADVISER, FRIEND

Senior Class photographers took motion pictures one sunny day and caught Mr. Merry's smile. Here it is, made into a 'still' for the Annual.

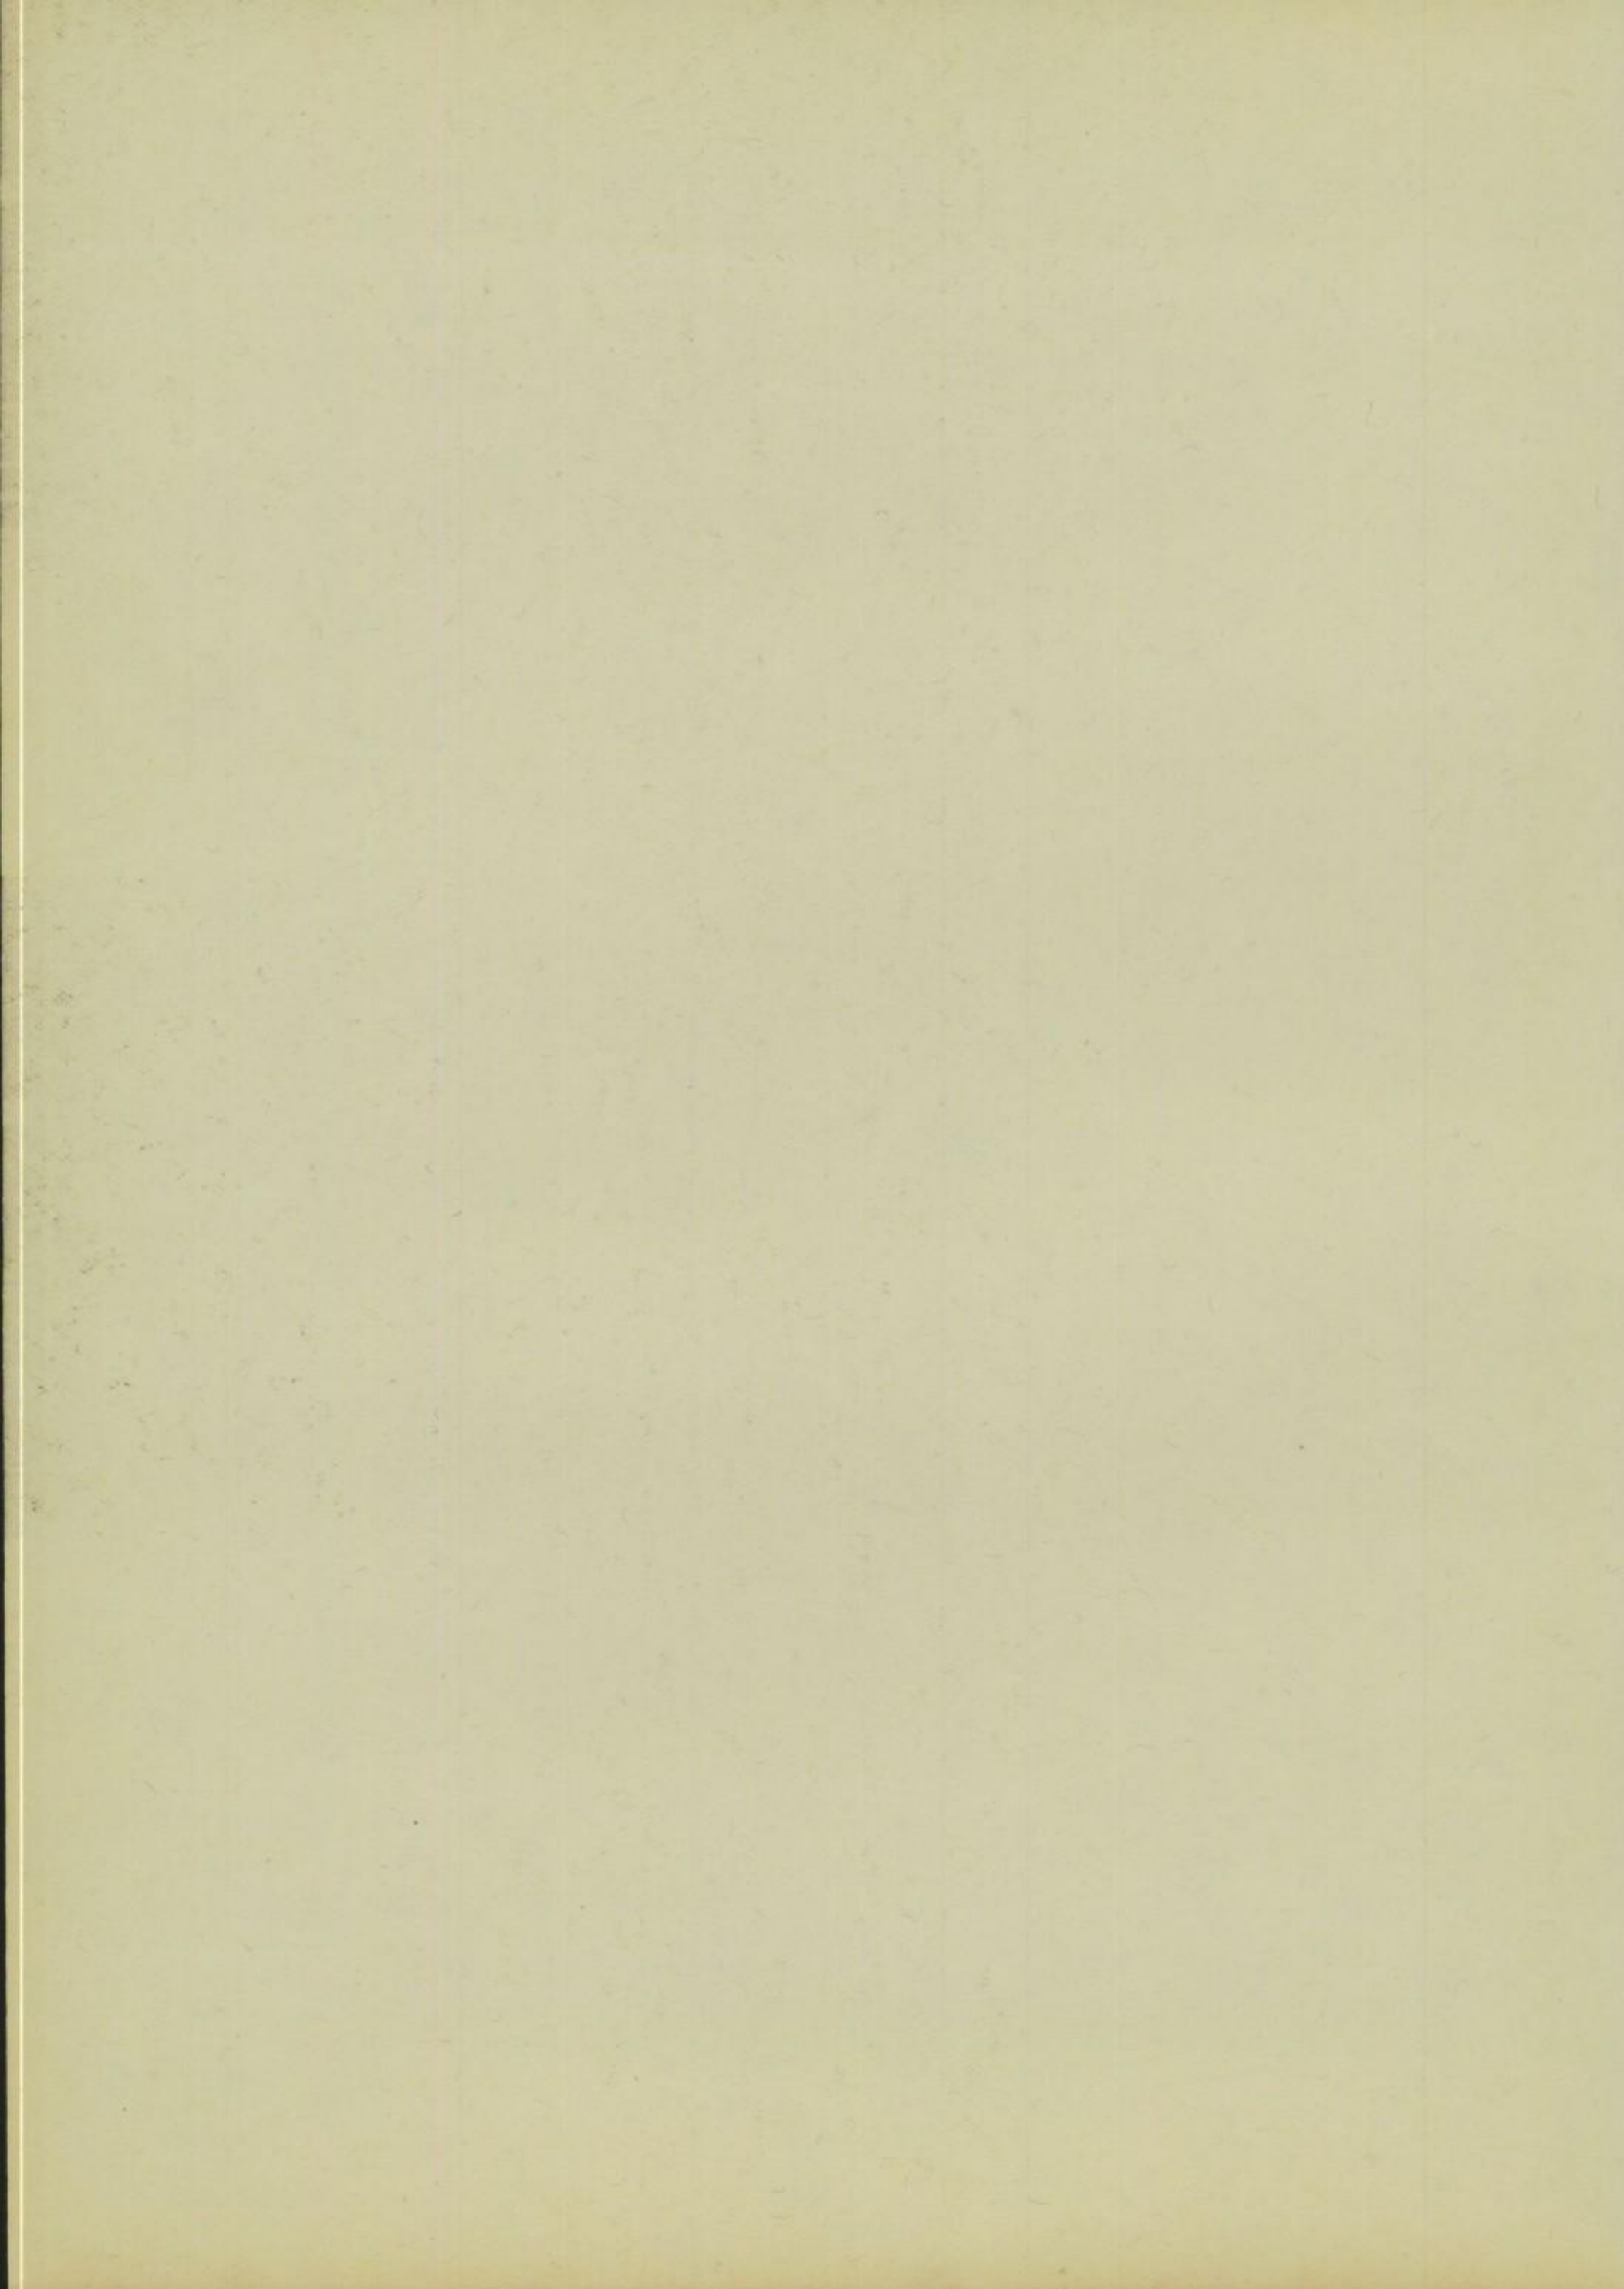

To increase student knowledge of radio the Radio Club was organized. Under the guiding arm of Mr. "Murphy" Doherty, this club accomplished many feats during the winter. Edward Fishman was the main cog in this club. Lessons in television were given; the Morse code was learned; lessons in amateur operating were given; and an amateur radio transmitter was set up at Lunken Airport. With so many feathers in their caps, the members decided to obtain more members in order to have more caps to put so many feathers in. Accordingly "Mercenary Murphy" spread his arms wider and flapped his feathers and soon had a record breaking brood (to pay for their picture).

The axis around which the activities of Hughes whirl is its principal, Mr. C. M. Merry. Realizing the benefits and pleasures gained from extra-curricular activities, he has given encouragement to all student enterprises. His interesting, well-chosen words have often been a splendid addition to club celebrations. His kindly bits of advice and his willing cooperation have helped a variety of undertakings to success. From his interest in Hughes students and his close contact with their work, there has come a wealth of interests to which students may devote their leisure time.

The Hughes Orchestra has enjoyed another active and successful year under the baton of its accomplished director, Mr. Kratz.

On May 18 and 19, the members participated in the concert together with the other musical organizations. At Christmas-time the orchestra had the pleasure of entertaining some little boys and girls from the Orphans' Home, a practice which is traditional. On several occasions the full orchestra has played for the school assemblies.

The Hughes Band, under the leadership of Mr. Kratz, Bob Owens as student director, and Howard Kuhn as drum major, has lent its presence at all the football games. On Fridays and Mondays, the front lawn has been the scene of entertaining impromptu concerts. At the Boys' Hobby Fair, and at the Flower Show, its members successfully entertained those present, and their ability as a concert band was established when they took part in the concert on May eighteenth and nineteenth, in conjunction with the other musical organizations.

The Choral Club, one of the newest organizations at Hughes, has enjoyed its most successful year since its start in 1926. This group has had a splendid cooperative spirit throughout the year, and, together with the persevering efforts of Mr. Havlovic, director, there has resulted a musical group of which Hughes may truly be proud.

Many highly enjoyable songs were chosen for the repertory. Weekly practice brought the singers to a high degree of perfection in presenting their selections on three occasions. The first occasion was at an auditorium session where the students thoroughly enjoyed the entertainment. A feature of the Spring Concert was the presentation of several selections by the club accompanied by the orchestra. The third and final appearance was on Class Day, where again the singing was appreciated.

As an innovation, the club gave a dance in the Girls' Gymnasium. This dance, on St. Patrick's Day, attended by over six hundred, was a complete success, both financially and socially. The receipts were used to obtain music for the club and to assist the Student Relief Fund.

The Girls' Glee Club has had a busy and interesting year under the able direction of Miss Hirst, devoting its major efforts to preparation for the Spring Concert. In this concert the Glee Club cooperated with other musical organizations of Hughes. The girls also sang at the Christmas Program in the auditorium and at a special Auditorium session for girls. The numbers which the girls sang in the concert were, "God of All Nature", by Tschaikowsky; "Robin in the Lilac Bush", by Nevin; and "Psalm 150", by Franck. These numbers were given fine shading and interpretation.

The Boys' Glee Club of 1933, the largest group in the history of the club, completed a most successful year with its participation in the concert given by the musical organizations. Under the direction of Mr. A. J. Havlovic, they rendered two novel songs, "John Peel", and the "Caisson Song" by Gruber. A special feature offered by the club at the concert was a quartet composed of Edwin Hamilton, James Feike, Mel Siefert, and Charles Krueck. BOB OWENS

CHARLES UPSON

The Senior Sages have had diversified programs at their meetings this year consisting of reports by the various members of the club on Stage Production, an interesting play reading by Mrs. Lane Thomas, previews and discussion of the one-act plays, "Habits" and "My Lady Dreams", and an enjoyable and instructive talk on Play Production, by Mr. John K. Rose of the Mummies of the University of Cincinnati. Under the capable direction of Miss Erna Kruckemeyer, and with the expert help of Miss Gladys Ervin, Miss Ruth Helman, and Mr. C. R. Mobberley, the Sages were able to give a number of financially successful and entertaining matinees, entitled "In Spring a Young Man's Fancy", "The Robbery", "Nerves", and "Habits". Financial benefit from one of these performances was received by the Student Aid Fund. The dramatic end of the Senior Class Production, "Little Women", was admirably presented by the Sages. A study of dramatic types chosen from the dramatic cycle, beginning at Everyman and culminating in such moderns as Barry, closed the active and successful year of the organization.

A new instrumental group was formed at Hughes this year for the purpose of providing appropriate music for Senior Sage productions. John Beroset organized and directed the group with the helpful coaching of Mr. Kratz. The Senior Sage Orchestra also took part in the Senior production, "Little Women". The orchestra consists of about twenty members of the Senior orchestra. Its success has been due to the ability of its director and the untiring efforts of its members. The continuance of the Senior Sage orchestra will enrich music and dramatics at Hughes.

Full Dramatic Season

"An Afternoon with the Senior Sages" was the title of the program for the first Senior Sage production of the new year. The presentation, "In Spring a Young Man's Fancy", was well received. The "Young Man" was Bob Abbott; Dorothy Friedman was the French maid; Jeanne Groeniger was the chaperone. The five J's were Helen Dreidame, Helen Minning, Martha Rhu, Sophie Schwartz, and La Verne Smith.

A double bill was the next offering of the Sages. The plays "Nerves" and "The Robbery", were given on December 21, for the benefit of the Christmas Fund. James Smith and Neil Vonderheid were the two principals in "Nerves". The cast also included Stanley Posthorn, Al Field, Stuart Safdi, Ralph Barnett, Gordon Waltz, and George Snelbaker. The cast of "The Robbery" consisted of Richard Bluestein, '32, Helen Dreidame, Eleanor Getzug, and Sigmund Valin.

"Habits", a play which has been given before, was chosen for the third matinee of the Sages. The young couple was Robert Owens and Martha Evans, whereas their habits were Virginia Schneider, Hazel Wilson, Clifford Woellert, and George Snelbaker. This play was unusual in that it was directed by students.

A successful year was climaxed when the Senior Sages gave three performances of Little Women, a highly enjoyable four-act play, on Thursday, April 6, and Friday, April 7. All performances were complete successes both as to finances and as to the manner of presentation. The play was given for the benefit of the Senior Class.

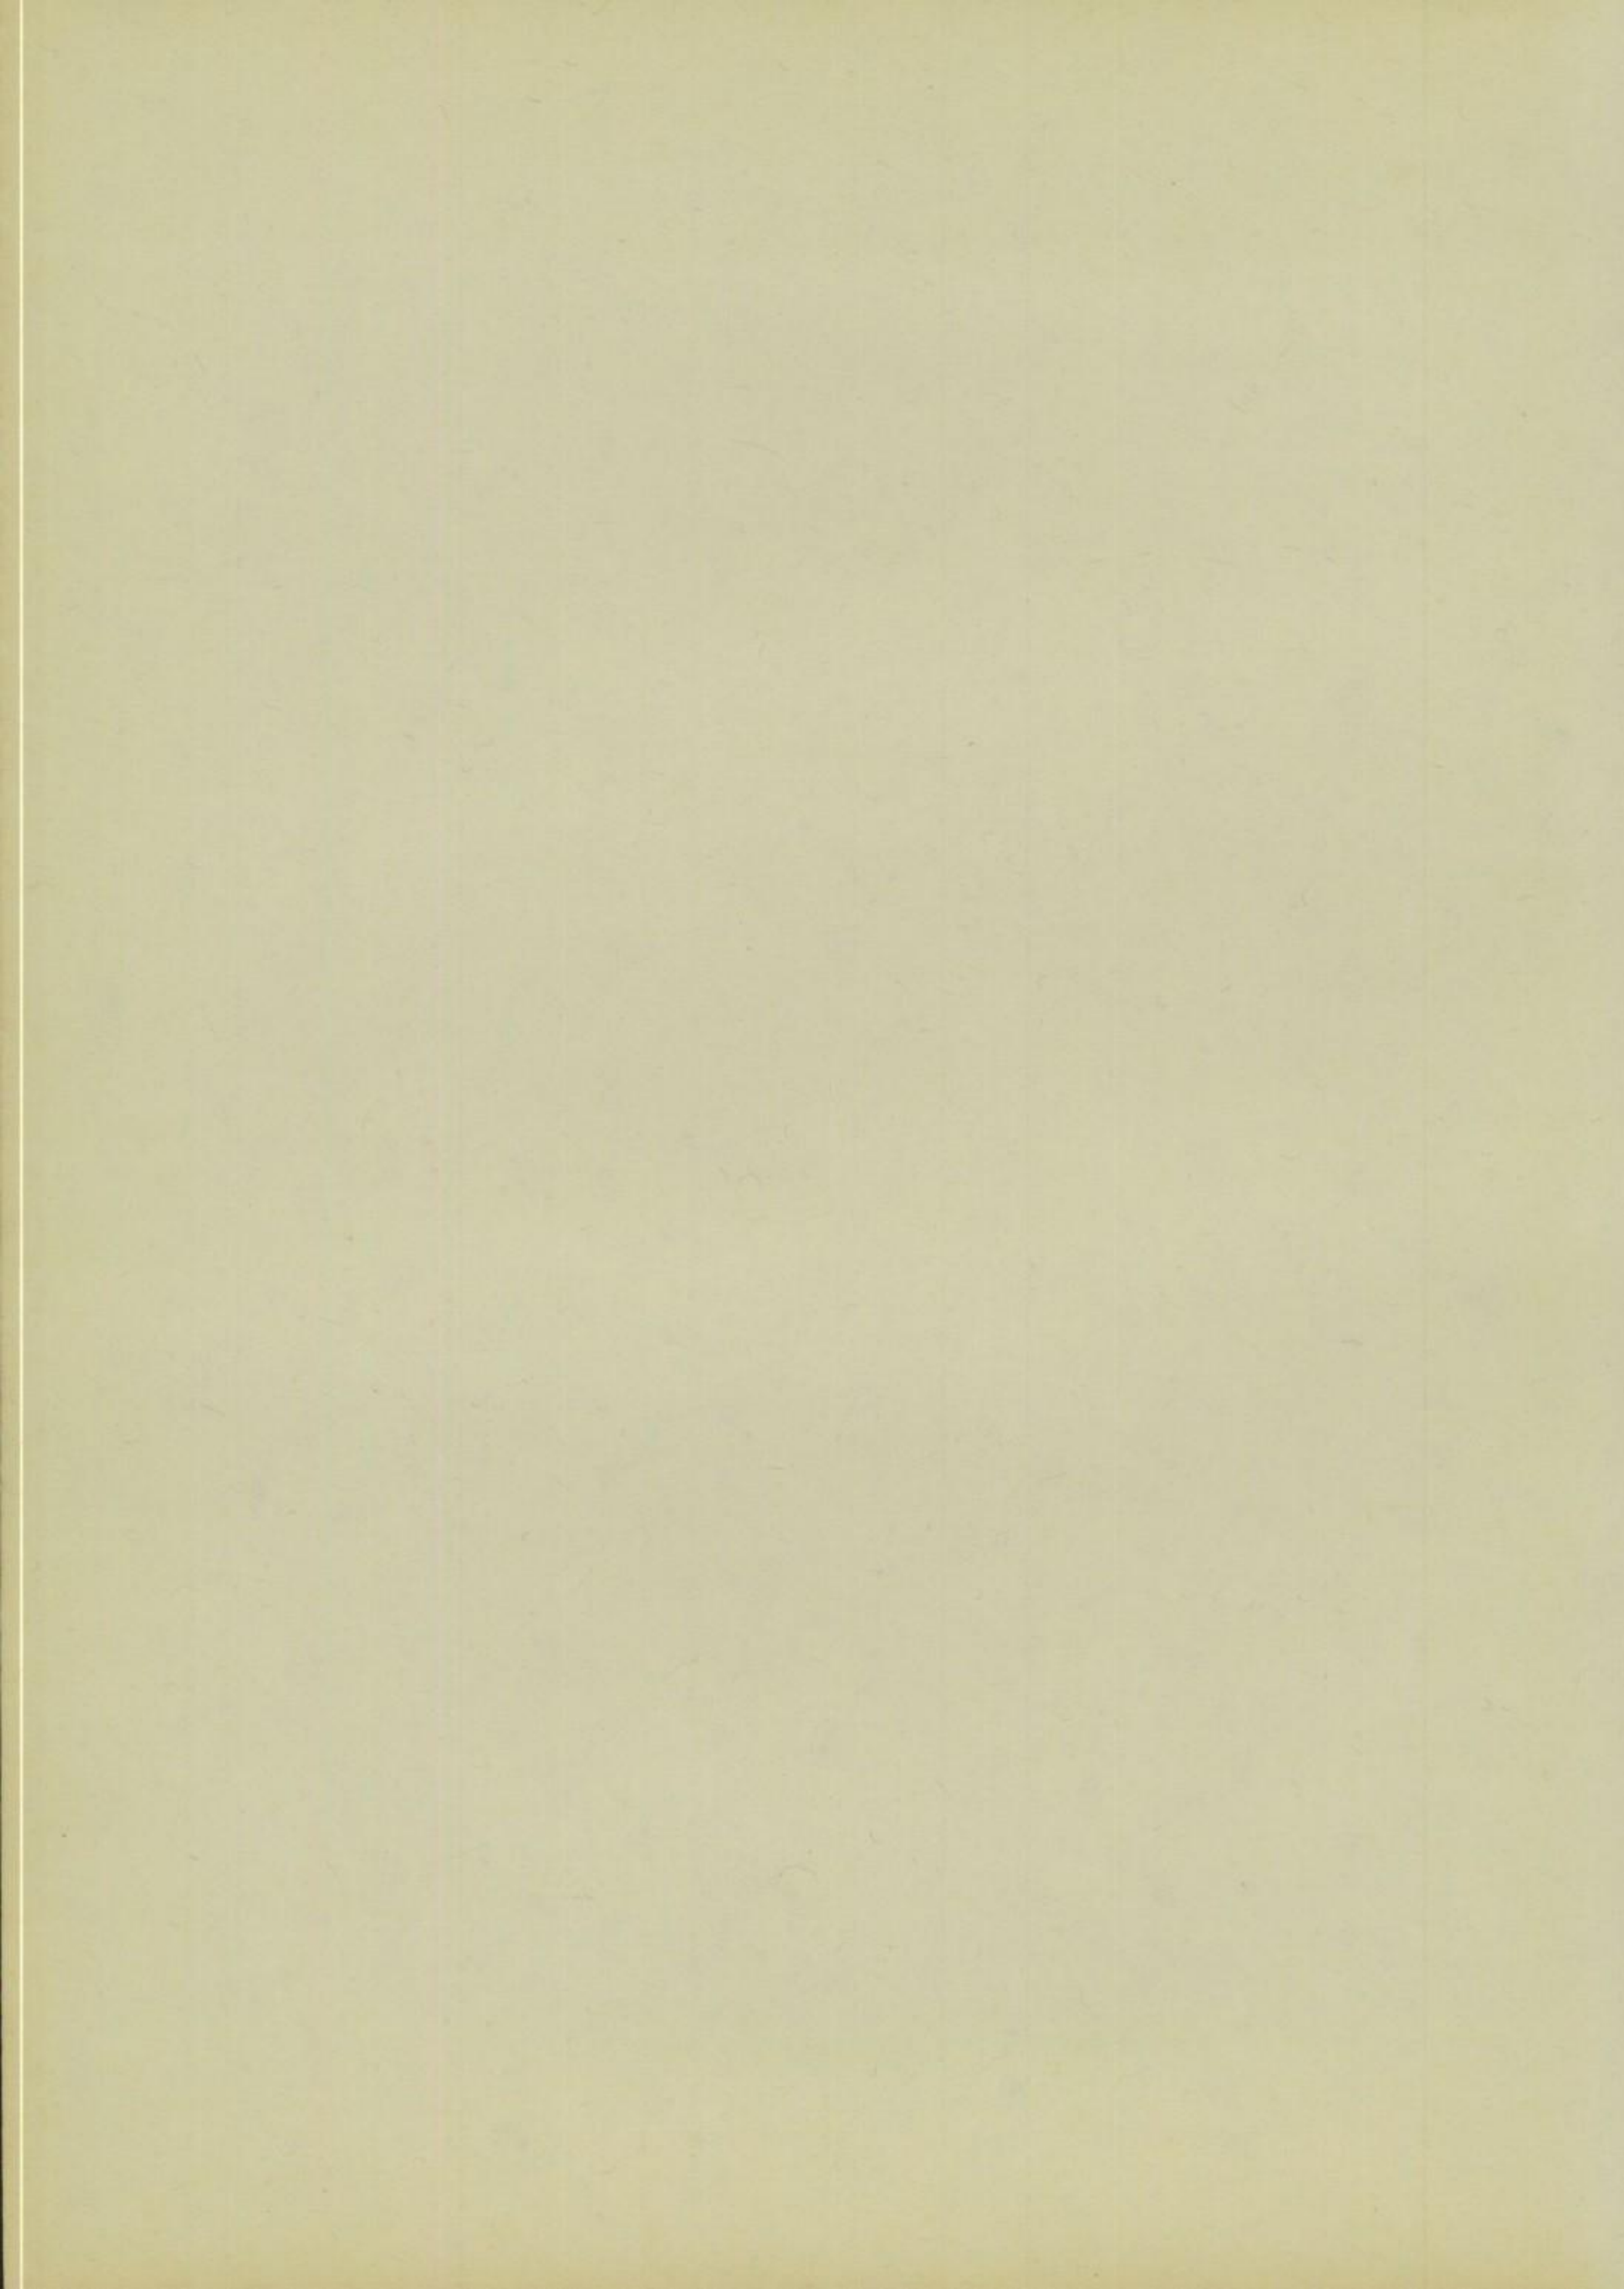

Helen Dreidame and Jack Franklin acted on Thursday and the same parts were taken on Friday by Joan Becker and Paul Brownstein. Fred Selm and Betty Beck were the parents of the Little Women. These were Maxine Crigger, Martha Evans, and Helen Minning. Ruth Wilson was the maid; John Stevenson, the old gentleman; Maurice Wilson, the professor; Betty Staebler, the grouchy aunt; and Gordon Waltz, Helen's suitor.

A great asset of the Senior Sages was the Senior Sage Orchestra, which provided appropriate music for every production. This faithful unit was under the directorship of John Beroset.

*W*HEN Time who steals our years away
Shall steal our pleasures, too,
The memory of the past will stay
And half our joys renew.

THOMAS MOORE—Song

Memory

The Tale of a Stowaway

SEPT. 6. S. S. "Hughes" set sail from pier Clifton and McMillan for another voyage to the Land of Learning. Bells rang and whistles blew and the passengers hastily scrambled up the gang plank. With Captain Merry at the helm, and an able crew under his supervision, amidst joyous greetings and farewells, the ship set sail. And thus it happened that I, Johnny Student, having boarded the ship before the loss of my passport had been revealed, was forced to conceal myself as a stowaway. The yarn I am about to spin reveals my conceptions, deductions, and excursions, during that never-to-be-forgotten trip.

7. Imagine if you can, my dismay at the discovery that I must dodge 2767 passengers on board in addition to the numerous officers. I learned very soon to avoid "first mate Games"—("tough seaman"), who extracted two-bits from each of 6 sailors, who were A. W. O. L. after 10 bells on the second day at sea.
8. Feeling the need for sustenance (food to you), I openly ventured into the mess hall, won the confidence of the cook, and partook of choice victuals, i. e. hamburger and chocolate pudding.
9. The next day, in quest of nutrition (or something), while attempting the same entrance to the mess hall, I was stopped abruptly by Steward Brown, "second tough seaman", whose question of my stateroom number caused me to forsake my intentions.
14. The only disturbance of the tranquility of activities was the forceful expulsion of Midshipman Pollak from the boat's music room by Mate Havlovic, "Third tough seaman" (Maestro to D. Jones).
16. First voyage passengers at last became accustomed to ship's lay-out and guides were added to the list of unemployed. Cliff Woellert paid the first 312 fine.
21. It wasn't until this time that passengers began to take an active part in ship activity, for I saw posted on the bulletin announcements of meetings of Girl Reserves, Honor League, Scribblers, and Senior Sages.
22. Midshipman Shneider was thrown in the brig today by the popular vote of the crew of 312. Shneider was the first victim of the voyage.

26. I accidentally found myself in the ship's auditorium today, and I heard passenger Charles E. Barker instruct the crew on "How To Get the Most Out of Life". Glad I dropped in.

- OCT. 7. In my efforts to escape a too curious officer, I ran into a meeting of the Huz Club crew, and immediately beat a hasty retreat; not, however, before I learned that midshipmen Broxon, Solmn, McCauley, and Mueller had been appointed coxswains to lead the Big Red Rooters.
10. Ship's bulletin announced that First-Class Seaman Krueck had been raised to the rank of President of the Student Press Guild of Greater Cincinnati.
 14. This was a happy day for the Good Ship Huz. From my hiding place on deck I witnessed the overwhelming victory of the S. S. Huz's football crew over the crew of the frigate St. Xavier.
 17. Will my troubles never cease? I stumbled into another cabin today and would have been discovered if the occupants, the Girls' Glee Club, had not been so busy electing their officers: Jeanne Groeniger, Nancy Bohart, Betty Franklin, and Dorothy Rogers.
 20. What a day! I crept into stateroom 302 and witnessed a display of what the well-dressed female passenger should wear. Again I repeat—What a day!
 21. Things are beginning to happen on board. I became so excited at the defeat of the Elder football crew that I almost jumped out of my hiding place.
 27. Jack Franklin, Martha Evans, Audrey Alexander, and Edgar Lotspeich, Senior crew officers, were elected today. I was fortunate though to witness their installation.
 28. Believe it or not, I walked the decks today, and I wasn't stopped nor questioned by a single officer. The joke? All officers were attending the Southwestern Ohio Teachers' Convention!
 31. I noticed in my aimless wanderings below deck that the crew of the French Club has got under way, under the leadership of its new officers, Maxine Crigger, Richard Atwood, Bernice Bloom, and Mina Ciener.
- NOV. 2. Between searching for food, dodging officers, and witnessing battles, I am al-

- ready a nervous wreck. Today the Hughes volley defeated Withrow, with Haverkos firing the big guns.
3. Several of the crew departed on a three-days' leave to act as hosts at Hotel Gibson, for the National Scholastic Press Association Convention meeting in Cincinnati.
 4. Had a big celebration on board today. The football crew sank the Woodward ship. Every man was lost.
 7. What luck! I managed to smuggle myself on board Capt. Kilroy Harris' launch, and enjoyed a trip among "Australian Aborigines". Midshipman Stoller received another stripe. I discovered with the help of my friend, the steward, that he had been presented the presidency of the Sales Club.
 12. Flag at half-mast today. Hughes football crew was sunk by Western Hills. In the excitement I almost fell overboard.
 15. I succeeded in slipping into the performance of "In Spring a Young Man's Fancy", and must say that sailor Abbott knows his stuff!
 18. Huz football crew finishes second by losing to Withrow. The ship stopped this evening to allow visitors to inspect the crew.
- DEC. 1. While receiving my daily rations from the cook this morning, I learned that midshipman Abbott had bought a fruit cake. I wonder why?
6. There is more excitement on board this ship than there is at a fire. The Hughes crew just outswam Walnut Hills, with Sailor Popov doing some fine work on the board.
 8. What a close call! I was so interested in watching Jim Stone's Indian dance in the "Follies of 401" that I didn't notice two officers approaching. I did my best to explain why I was peeping through a port hole, and was greatly relieved when the officers believed my story.
 9. The basketball tug was swamped by the S. S. "Aurora", but the swimming crew walked, or rather swam, away with first place in the interscholastic meet at the Y.
 12. All passengers, including yours truly, turned out to see the benefit performance, "The Doomed Battalion", on board the S. S. "Forest Theater".
 16. Help! I learned from the cook that our basketball tug had been swamped again, this time by the Middletown. If this happens again, we'll be sunk!

20. The approach of Christmas called forth parties among several sections of the crew, including the German Club, Home Economic Club, and Scribblers. How does a stowaway celebrate Christmas?
21. I succeeded in breaking into another Sage performance. Even the most critical passengers enjoyed "Nerves" and "The Robbery".
22. The combined crews of the Girl Reserves and Hughes Club cheered the sick at the different hospitals with their caroling, and then cheered themselves with a dance, which I crashed, as usual.
23. Hurray! Santa Claus boarded the ship today!

Come out from behind those whiskers, Mel

30. Alas! I fear our basketball crew is lost. Another tidal wave, in the form of Dayton Stivers, struck it today.
- JAN. 11. I absent-mindedly walked into stateroom 306, and found the followers of Captain Caesar, Cicero, and Virgil in a huddle, and backed out just in time to escape notice. Some day, I'll really slip and then—!
16. Charles Lofgren, an "old salt", boarded the ship today and entertained passengers with an account of his trip to the Arctic with Admiral Byrd.
 19. Worry, worry! Another group of officers to avoid. A group of passengers have formed themselves into a crew known as the Vox Pop.
 20. The swimming crew missed a stroke today, and landed in place in the Interscholastic meet.
 24. Gloom, deep gloom has settled over the whole ship, and by a bit of sleuthing I have discovered the reason; Captain Merry has just issued the exam schedule.

27. Senior crew held its dance today. After much trouble I finally passed Mates Games and Havlovic and several minor officers. What a dance!
31. Today there was no one on deck. Why? Everyone was below, struggling with exams! There is some consolation in being a stowaway!

Worry, Worry!

- FEB. 3. Accustomed to deserted decks during the past week, I was astounded and almost discovered by the horde of passengers rushing up from below deck. Exams were over, and I was forced to return hurriedly to my haunts in the hold of the ship.
The Hughes Club crew held its closed dance this evening, and I crept out of hiding long enough to attend. Imagine my surprise when I discovered that admission was being charged by weight!
9. Eventually I will learn to stay out of strange cabins. Unconcernedly I opened a stateroom door and found the Math crew earnestly striving to determine the age of the stars. Another hasty retreat!
10. The good tug "Basketball" was finally permanently swamped for the season by the S. S. "Woodward".
14. This Sage crew keeps me busy! Between crashing its performance, and dodging its officers, I really think I'm twins! As a Valentine, the Sages presented "Habits".
20. Visiting officer Zimmerman instructed the crew in the gentle art of deep-sea diving. By concealing myself in a stuffed shark, I was able to see and hear all. What a laugh I'll hand these officers some day!
21. Just about the time I have developed my sea-legs, the crew stages a roller-skating party! It was pretty hard to crash this party because Mate Bauer was on the job; but, I hid myself in an overcoat, and was carried in.

Merrily we roll along

- MAR. 4. The track crew barged through to another victory at the A. A. U. track meet. Midshipman Stoller won another stripe for his good work.
7. A bank holiday was declared today. However, aboard the S. S. "Hughes" no change has been noted as yet. My financial standing is the same as the day I stowed away on this ship. Three guesses as to how much I have!
8. The Annual crew has been working hard on the ship's log for the year, and I have been working harder than ever to avoid first mate Games, who seems to suspect the presence of a stranger aboard. (Heaven help a sailor at a time like this!)
17. The memory of Captain St. Patrick was honored aboard the Hughes by both the crew and the passengers. In the guise of a member of the band, I gained entrance to the ship's auditorium and enjoyed a program of music, humor, and stories by the Captain, and more or less of a hornpipe by "Irish" sailor Katz.
18. More grief! Our good ship was almost swamped as it lay at anchor today. Was I disturbed down in the hold! An old-fashioned cloudburst raised our sea about 20 feet!
20. Our salty friend, Van Wormer Walsh, took the crew on a voyage to the "land of cork and olives" in the good ship "Gee-Gee".
24. Consternation! The cook informed me that stocks had been taken on board to replace the brig (cooler).

27. Cabin-boy Allen put the passengers in an uproar with his "Vas you dere Charlie?" at the Annual crew's subscription drive. The odious aroma of nicotine added to the general confusion during the bankers' scene.

By permission of Jack Pearl

- APR. 7. Great excitement! The Sage crew staged its "chef d' oeuvre" (masterpiece) of the year. "Little Women". What a time I had crashing this performance!

Will Gordon Waltz?

- MAY 1. Happy days! Our official log, "Old Hughes", has just received All-American Rating from both branches of the Navy department, New York and Minneapolis.
2. The baseball crew churned through to another victory over the S. S. "Woodward".
6. Feeling the need for a bit of relaxation, I climbed forth from the hold of the S. S. "Hughes" and, true to form, I stumbled into the midst of a gala celebration. The Hughes Club crew was staging its annual open dance at the Alms Hotel. More fun!

13. Had another close call today. Hurrying below deck to avoid mate Havlovic, I ran into another dance—the sailor-ettes of the Girl Reserve crew!
18. Music, music everywhere! The combined musical organizations of the good ship "Hughes", gave the passengers a treat in the form of a Spring Concert, under the leadership of boatswain Beroset, and officers Kratz, Hirst, and Havlovic.
26. All hands on deck! The S. S. "Island Queen" drew alongside today, and everyone, crew, officers, and passengers, swarmed overside. In other words, this was the day of the Hughes-Western Hills boatride.

- JUNE 8. Land Ho! The good port Graduation has been reached once more, and I, a mere stowaway, am once more free to wander as I please.
9. A day of rejoicing and sorrow. Passengers and crew assembled for one more day together before the final departure. The Senior crew gave its final performance on this solemn occasion. Even I, the stowaway, was allowed to mingle unmolested with those I had formerly avoided.
15. The day of days! This evening the whole Senior crew was solemnly awarded its promotion to ships of higher rank—the College and the Business World. With this last entry I, Johnny Student, bring to a close my tale of the voyage of the good ship "Hughes" in the year 1932-1933.

312 Day By Day

WHAT would Hughes be without 312, and what would 312 be without King Otis (of course you've heard it before, but one more time won't hurt you). The answer to this question may be found by the formula $ab = \frac{x}{k}$, where $a=A$, $b=B$, v is a gravitational constant, and k and x are thrown in for good measure. Now that this matter has been settled so efficiently, let us return to the main line of thought and stuff.

It all started in the beginning of the year when Brother Restemeyer was promised a visit to the cooler by His High and Mighty Majesty, King Otis I. This was followed by the issuance of further promissory notes to Brothers Shneider, Waltz, Wagner, etc., but by the end of the first semester only one of these had been incarcerated. This unfortunate was Fra Shneider, who entered the cooler illegally and against his will, the deed being effected by 312's well-known radical element, so widely celebrated in song and story.

The highly successful (though entirely unconstitutional) imprisonment of the Honourable Shneider was followed by the hoosegowment of an animal of canine antecedents and a sophomore, the offense of the latter being his reference to Mr. Bergman as "that guy in 316".

Although the cooler had thus far been honored by only three occupants, it was quite a shock to all the brethren (Restemeyer, Waltz, and Wagner excepted) to hear from the lips of King Otis that the cooler had been abruptly and incontinently closed. After the first explosion had died down, His Highness went on to state that a carpenter from the Board of Education had revealed to him that the bottom of the cooler was rather thin and that the presence thereon of a student of excessive tonnage would probably result in a downward flight of four stories. "Well," continued His Majesty, "and here all the time, I've been thinking it was only one story."

During the early part of the school year, the oratorical powers of Mr. Games remained latent; and it was not until a month or two after school began that he arose in his wrath and thundered forth an oration against those terrible individuals, Kizer, Calvert, and Doherty. "All three of them," he said, "would take the shirt off your back, without even giving you some Ungentine for protection against sunburn." Other speeches soon followed this, many directed against that den of iniquity, the front hall, with the result that Brother Shneider was collected on the charge of patting the head of one of the opposite sex. The Honourable One was promptly delivered over for judgment to the mercy of a committee composed of Schilling, Krueck, Restemeyer, and Seyffer. The result of this action was the appearance of Krueck in a long black robe, origin unknown, and of Seyffer with a wooden sword. The sentence was duly pronounced by Krueck in his basso-profundo, and consisted mostly of the nickname "Cranium Caresser" for Brother Shneider and a command to stay out of the front hall for two weeks, an order which was duly carried out for two days.

The result of this sentence was fully as far-reaching as the Dred Scott decision, being followed by an avalanche of committees, to which may be laid the reason for Wilson's appearing for two weeks without a tie. One of the most notable cases was that of 312 vs. Brownstein, a provision of the verdict being that Brother Brownstein should bring a bottle of flood water from the Mill Creek, the genuineness of the H^2O to be tested by Brother Shneider, who would find out by tasting it. The communistic element finally gained command, however, and in the case of 312 vs. Siefert went so far as to boo the prosecutor, Mr. Sheinblott, off the witness stand. This unfortunate circumstance led to the downfall of the committee system of government and the reestablishment of a complete autocracy.

The breakdown of the cooler and committee systems of punishment was immediately followed by a crime wave of unprecedented severity, the climax of which was the statement of Brother Owens, "I defy 312." The subsequent demand for discipline was met by the ever-ready Hughes Club, which ordered and delivered the stocks. Before their presence could do much good in the crime-ridden atmosphere, however, the entire room was startled by their disappearance. Whether it was the work of the communistic element again or some dastardly lower classmen, up to the time of writing 312 does not know and is unlikely to find out.

The disappearance of the stocks seemed to sober down the denizens of 312 and the rest of the year was comparatively quiet, being disturbed only by such things as Blanck's throwing the dictionary at Ericsson and Anderson's taking motion pictures of King Otis in action.

On the whole, the brethren of 312 have enjoyed a successful year. We pass over their failures, such as the Christmas party that turned into a dance in the girls' gym, the disappearance of the stocks, and the besting of Brother Shneider at card twirling by lower classmen; and we remember only its successes, the introduction of the committee system and of the stocks, the adeptness of the brethren at dandelion picking, and the development of geniuses such as Shneider, Wilson, and Allen, though no one knows why they are geniuses.

Fifth Bell with the Senior Girls

"Ouch! Say, will you kindly stop shoving?" said Louise Biederman.

"But Louise," I tried to explain, "you know the lunchroom—FOOD," and I added shyly, "it means so much to me."

"Me, too," added Margaret Wend. "And say, do you remember the time Lucille Levin and Jean Revelson gave us that chocolate cake they made?"

"Do I remember it? Why the icing was an inch thick. We certainly lost no time in eating it, did we?"

"No! But something was gained, and that was pounds," said Della Fern Alexander, laughing so loudly at her own joke that I didn't get to hear what Joan Ledbetter, Audrey Alexander, and Eleanor Getzug were whispering about.

"Oh, dear!" I cried, "I miss everything, but here's one chance I certainly won't let slip by." I stole softly behind Grace Wasmer and finally reached the head of the line where Lillian Sapadin was standing. Here was my chance, so gliding stealthily by Betty Beck, who was supposed to be watching the line, I reached the room that all Seniors dream about. Everyone was busy eating; that is, all except Alice Bettis, Margaret Ward, and Helen Beyersdorfer, who were standing in the corner in a little circle with their heads bent low. Something must be wrong, I decided, so I rushed over to the girls, only stopping long enough to get back that bite of pie I gave Janet Gruenebaum the other day, and to taste that gorgeous-looking dessert of Florence Imwold's. "Is there anything wrong?" I asked the three girls in the circle.

"Yes," said Alice in a queer voice, "my reputation is ruined."

My heart sank. Poor Alice's voice was so choked with emotion that she could no longer speak, but Margaret Ward continued bravely.

"You see—Alice wasn't very hungry today and she could eat only meat, potatoes, a vegetable, a sandwich, and dessert. And now—"

"Now!"

"Her title as the champion eater will go to Dorothy Gray."

With this explanation, the three girls burst into tears.

"That's a dismal shame," I said. However, having troubles of my own, I wandered again toward the line of stampeding girls. I then saw my two pals, Alice Rabkin and Elaine Maxwell, sitting at a table with a strange, distinguished-looking lady. Who could she be? Well, I soon found out that she was none other than the famous Mrs. Agatha Snoop. Elaine told me Mrs. Snoop had just come over from Europe for an interview with the famous Hughes senior girls. I asked her how she happened to come into the lunchroom, and she told me that that was where she had heard most of the Seniors spent their time. Unable to find a suitable reply, and forgetting my hunger, I sat down and started to talk to Mrs. Snoop.

"Of course," I said, "you certainly have heard that Catherine Fries, Norma Kabitsch, and Barbara Stoffel were asked to show Babe Ruth a few things about playing baseball?"

"Why, no, I wasn't aware that Hughes housed such athletes."

"Oh, I should say. And have you heard about the Senior Sage production, 'Little Women'?"

"Oh, yes," Mrs. Snoop replied, "that was the play that Martha Evans, Helen Dreidame, Helen Minning, Joan Becker, Betty Staebler, Betty Beck, and Ruth Wilson did so successfully."

"Yes," I answered proudly. "They were so good that the Parahill Picture Company would like to make a picture with these girls starring."

Just then Mary Jane Siehl, Alvera Lang, and Tess Rost came to our table, and Mary Jane said, "You promised to buy a ticket from me today."

I said, "All right," so promptly and so loudly that Mary Gracely, who was sitting at the next table, dropped the bottle of milk which she was drinking. Mrs. Snoop asked what the ticket was for.

"Oh," I said, "there is to be a recital next week, in which Virginia Schneider will be the soloist and Carol Smithner, the celloist. It really should be very entertaining because Helen Teuting is going to do a number of specialty dances, and all the costuming and designing is to be done by Marguerite Kuehn. So you see, we expect big things."

"Excuse me a moment," I continued, "Georgia is calling me." I thought I knew what she wanted. Right I was, for dear old Snookie said, "Dorothy, honey, give me a penny and I'll have a nickel." With a gentle but firm "scram," I resumed my seat.

Mrs. Snoop asked me who those pretty girls sitting next to us were. I whispered, "Edna Jones, Jeanne Groeniger, and Jane Bugher. They're pretty but they eat too much."

Alice kicked me under the table as much as to say, "Speak for yourself, John."

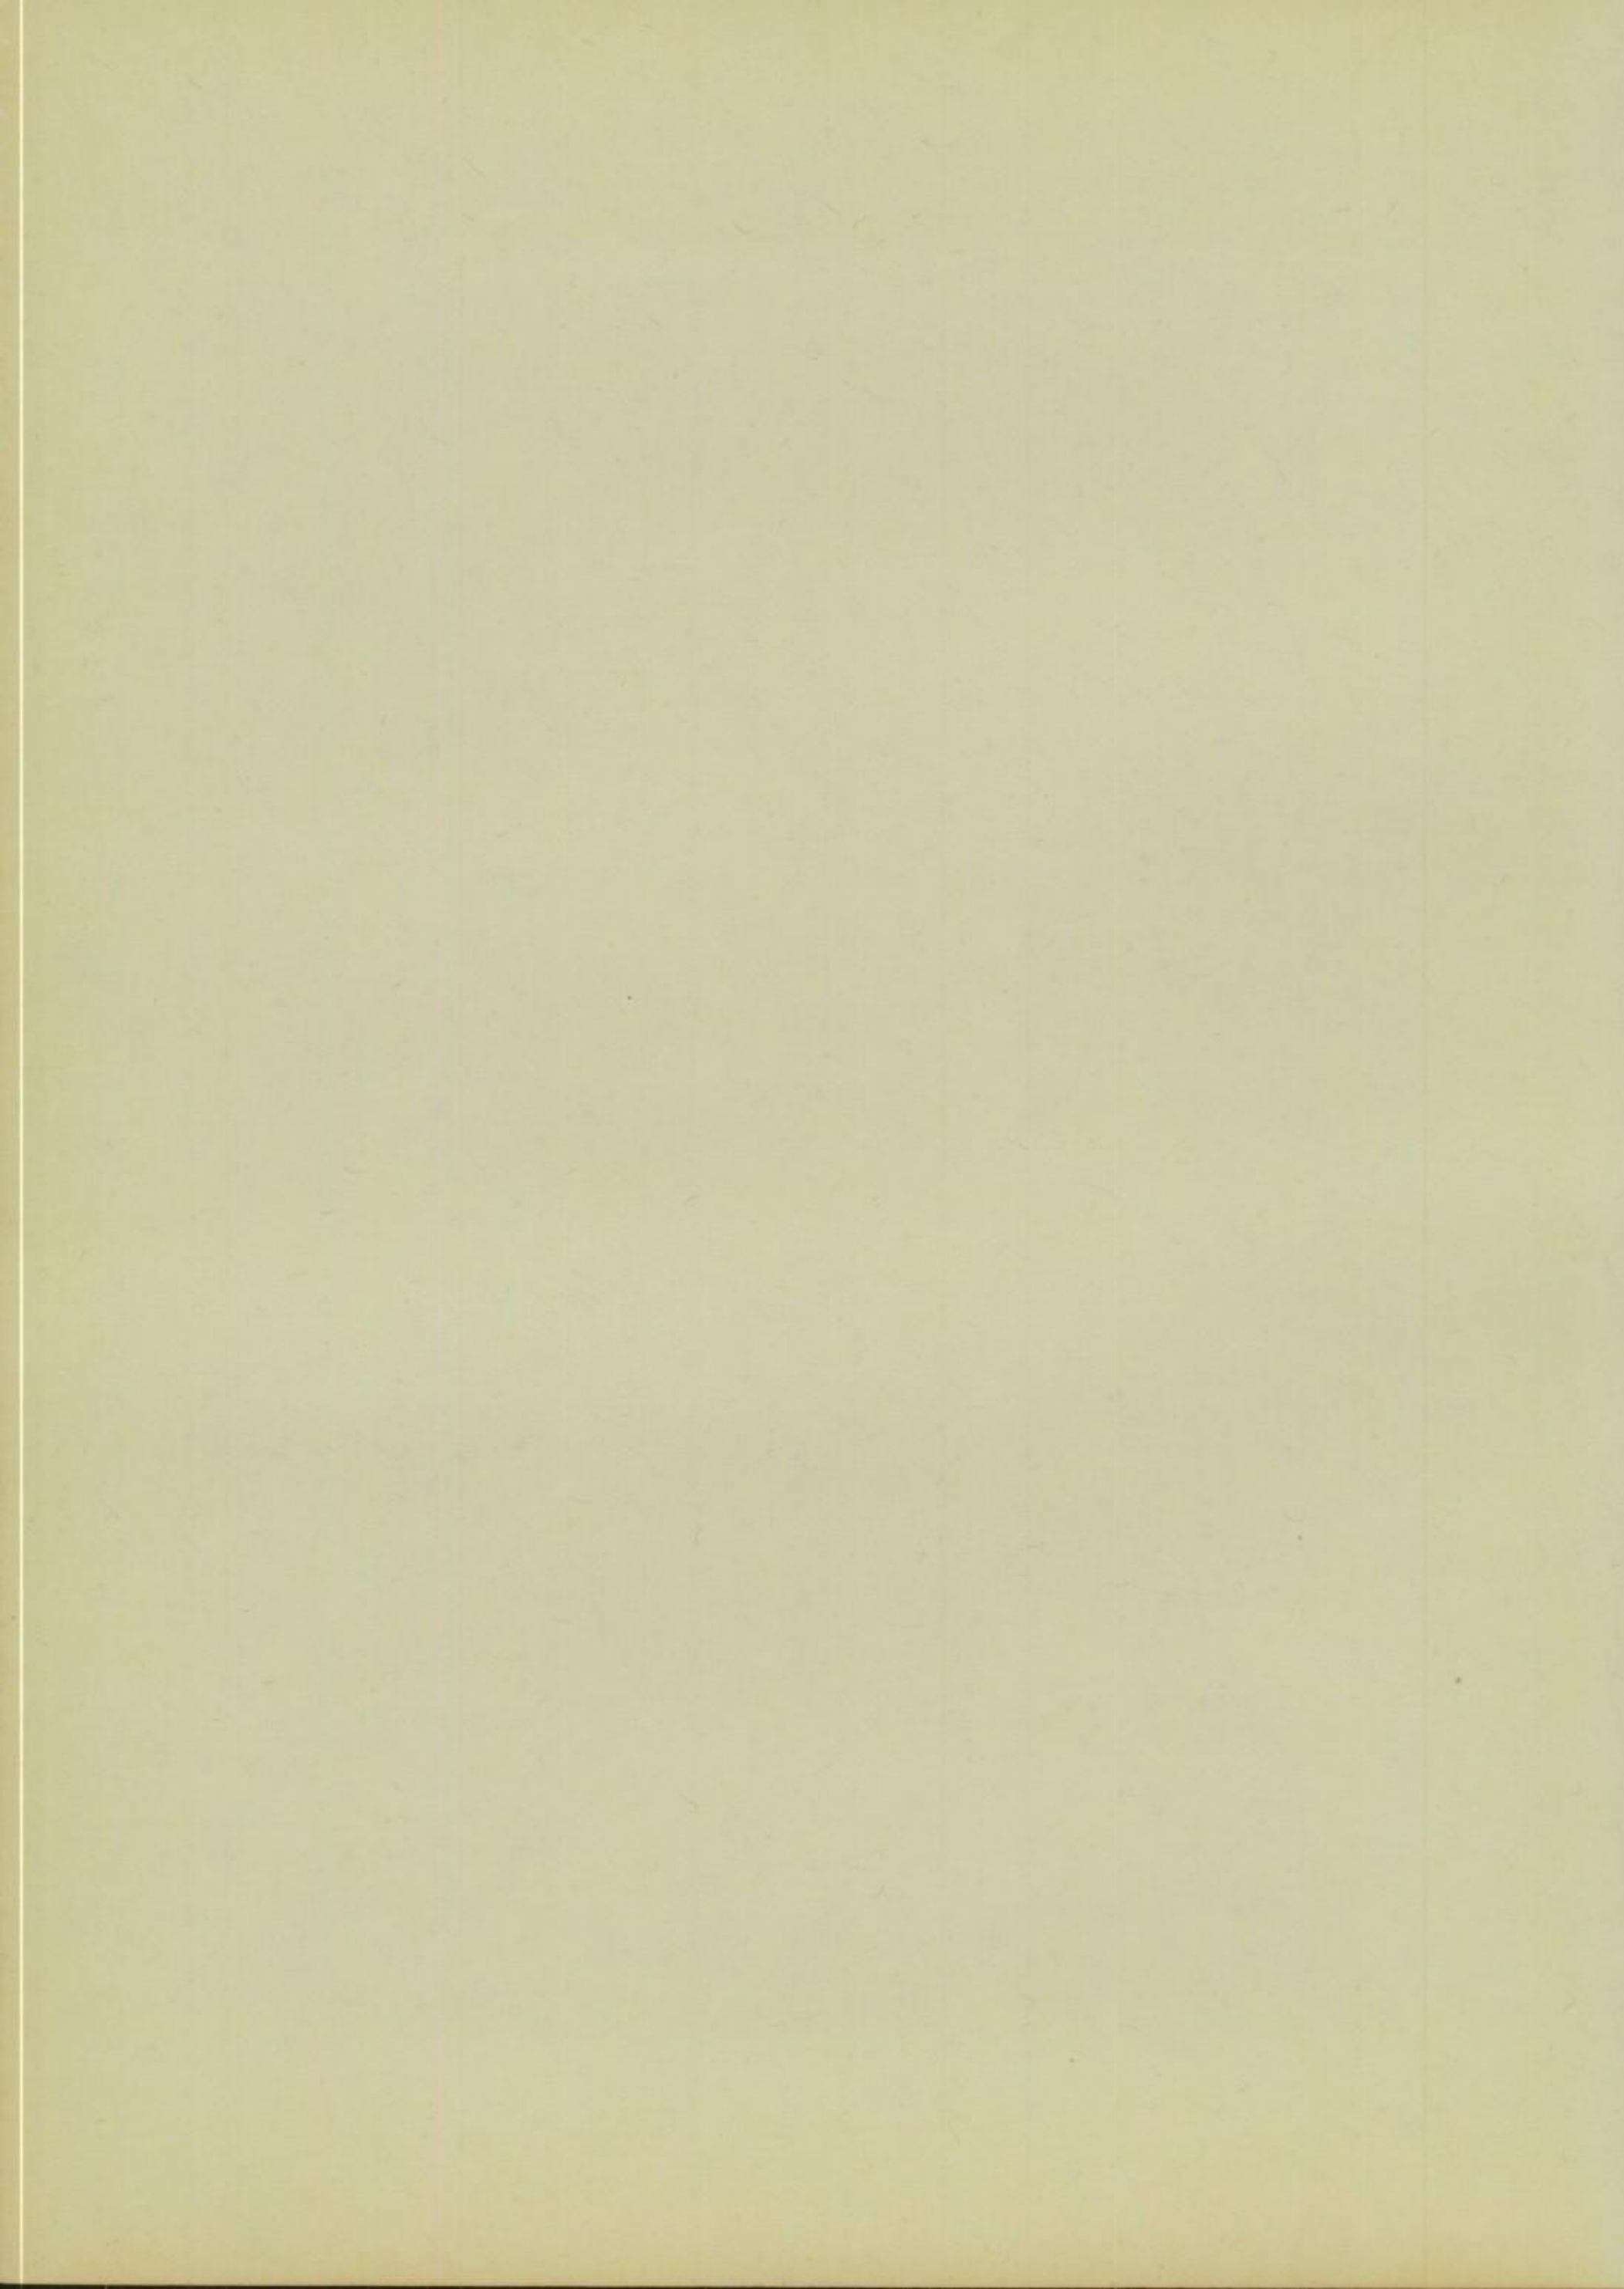

Feeling rather guilty, I said, "See those five girls going out arm in arm? They're Gretchen Grauer, Patricia Kisker, Roberta Theiring, Edith Ann Elliott, and Maxine Crigger. I'll bet they're on their way to the OLD HUGHES office. That's where they spend most of their time."

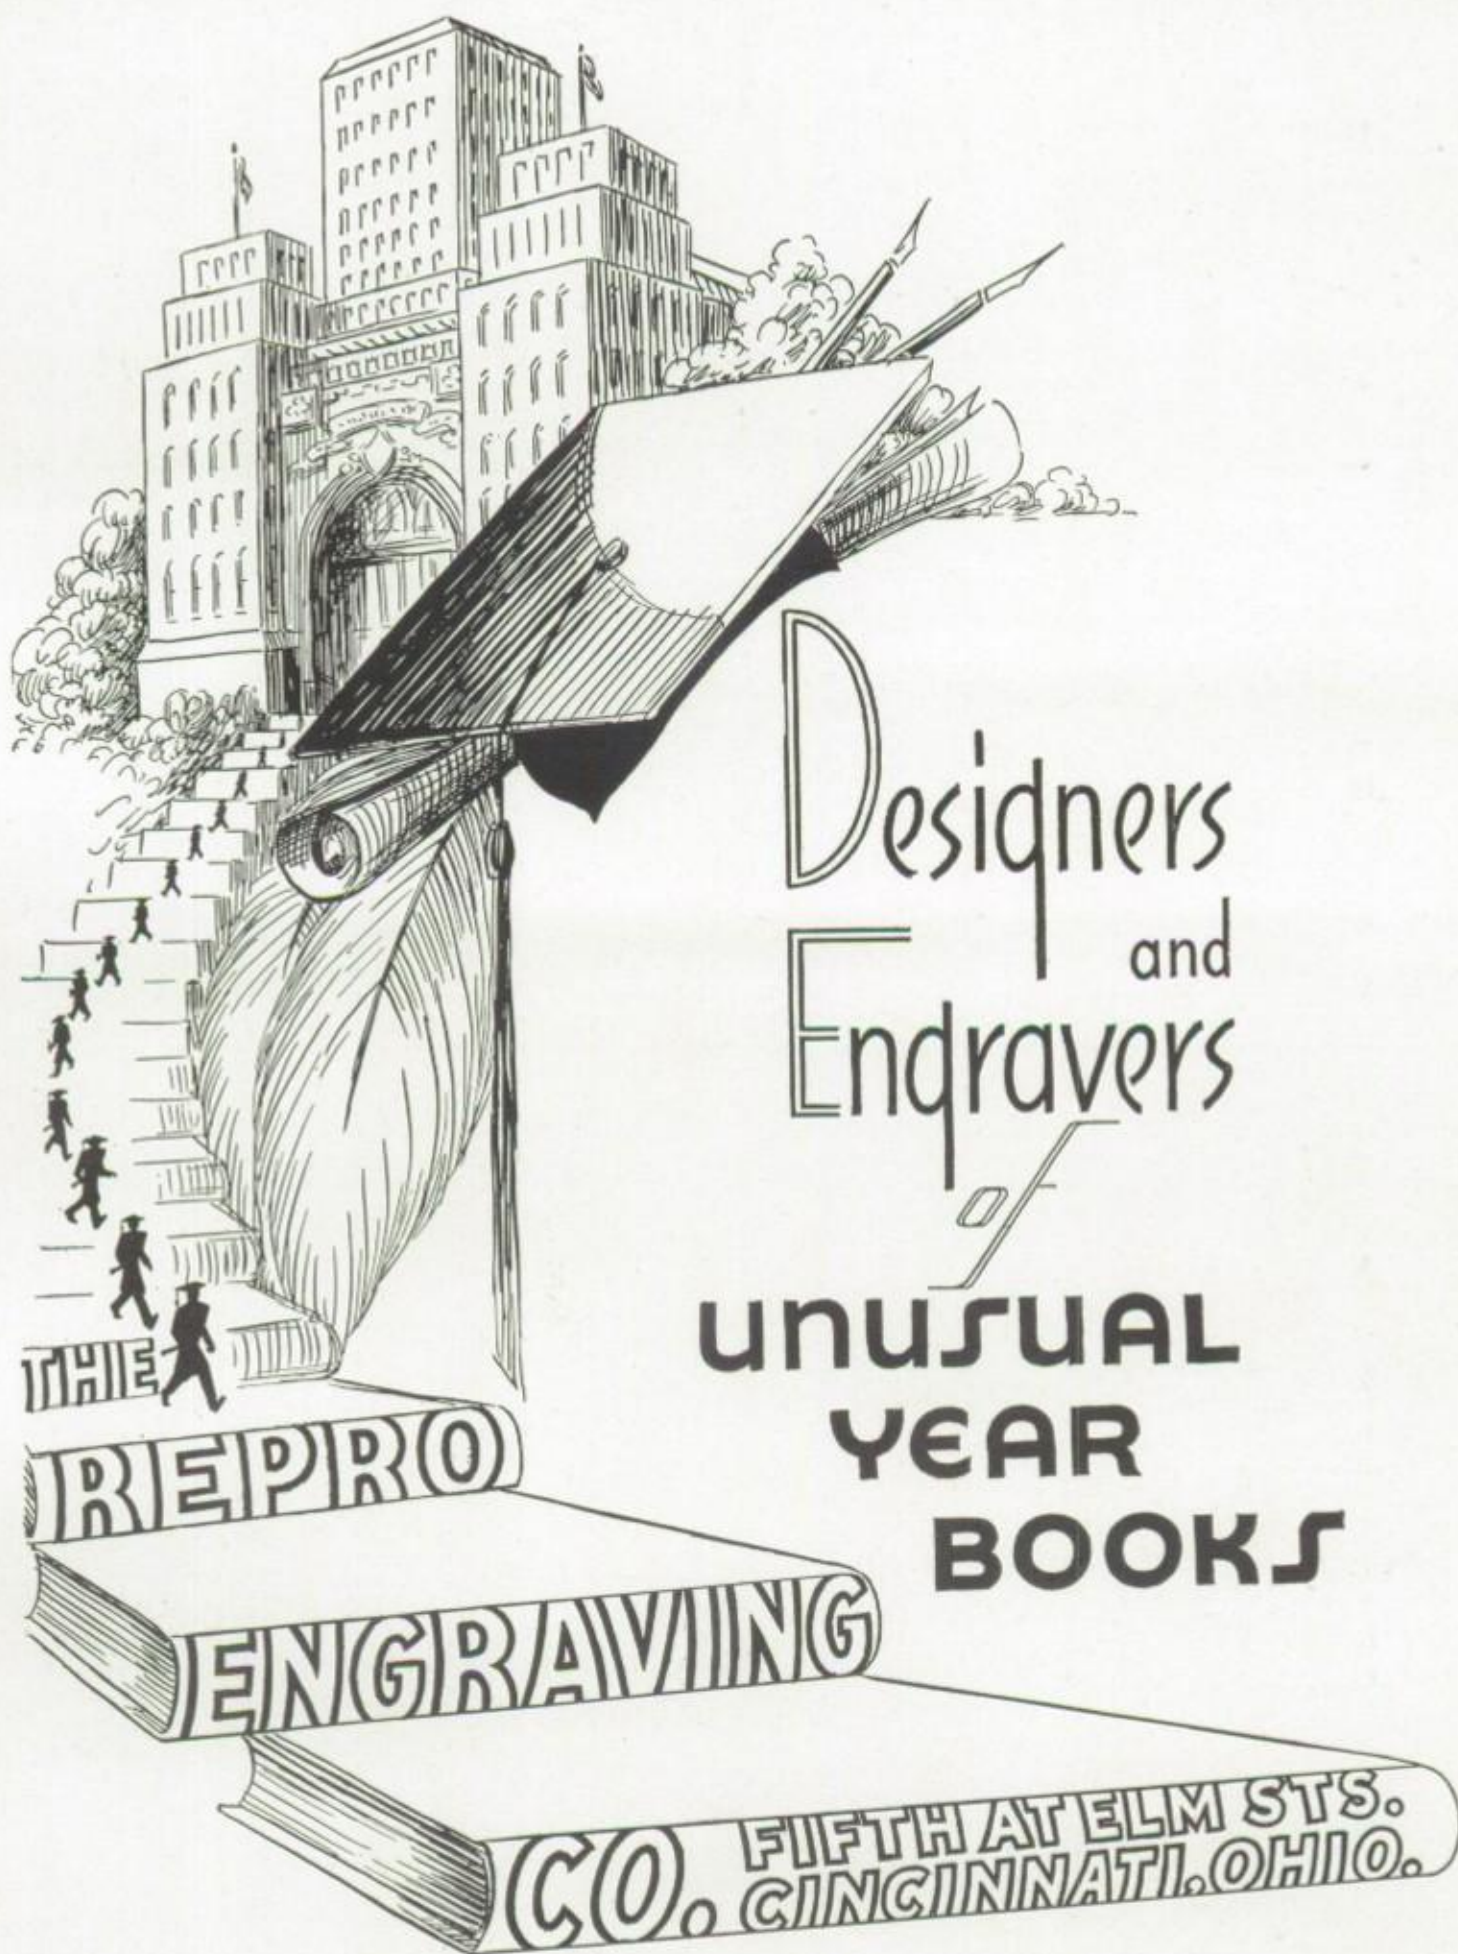

As for me—well, I'm pretty glad I'm graduating, and—oh, there goes the bell and I haven't told you about myself. Well, I have only a second, but if you insist—there's really nothing much to say about me, only that my name is Dorothy.

The Educational Investment

WHEN one invests wisely he has a right to expect satisfactory dividends. This is especially true with respect to the investment in education. Littleford-Nelson management proceeds upon the assumption that business education is purchased with the view of its rendering a life-long service and, because of that fact, high quality is considered of more importance than cheapness.

No effort is spared to give Littleford-Nelson students the best instruction, the most useful knowledge, and the most practical training. There is no pretense of the cheap and superficial about the courses offered. At the same time the cost to the student has been kept as low as is economically consistent with the maintenance of high standards.

Business education that elevates its possessors in the respect and esteem of their fellows and carries with it a life-long sense of satisfaction has been, and still continues, the one high aim. These policies safe-guard the investment and go far toward insuring the expectancy.

Tells About His Trip to Mars

(Excerpts from his Talk.)

" . . . I looked around to see if I could pick up a second-hand spacerocket any place and I finally found one for $400,000. It was one of the earlier models without Automatic Clutch or any of the modern conveniences. It had, though, a rather quaint appearance, so I promptly named it Fou-Fou.

" . . . I soon found out that on Mars the parking regulations are quite mixed up. On all even days of the month, space-rockets with even license numbers must park on the right side of the canal, all those with odd numbers must park on the left. On all odd days of the month, however, this is exactly reversed and the space-rockets with odd numbers are parked on the right side and those with even numbers on the left. This only holds true, however, in the months of February, June, August, October, and December. During the other months of the year the side of the canal on which to park is decided by the direction in which the wind is blowing. This method is usually rather difficult as there are no winds on Mars.

" . . . Traveling on Mars is rather rough because one is always bumping over these Martian canals.

" . . . The thing which impressed me most about Mars was the lack of bathtubs."

"Spring is here," that ancient phrase,
Is harping in my mind again.
A murrain on its modly ways
And all those of its kind, amen!

Must I devote a precious hour
To writing of a scrawny tree
Or some small, wet, be-draggled flower
Or a noisy bird that sings off key.

The teacher thinks that she'll obtain
From me an ode or sonnet gay,
But she'll not get a single strain—
At least—not right away.

● Mumm's Champagne is to Dago Red what Shipley's Coffee is to ordinary coffees. If this statement seems extravagant to those who have never experienced the distracting delights of Shipley's winelike brew, all one need do is summon our assistants, call for coffee and linger over its fragrance for days. The fifteenth cup will soothe and warm and taste quite as nobly as the first. Some of our older patrons when ordering our coffee do so in reverent, hushed voices, often genuflecting. All Shipley food is equally superior.

An incident at Shipley's: A distraught High Admiral calling for Shipley's coffee to quiet his nerves. He has just heard that Congress cannot afford to give him another battleship. This sort of thing happens all the time.

In the history of crime punishment in 312 various means of correction have been added this past year. Notably:

- I. Fruit Cake—one purchase for every time disorderly.
- II. Coming at 6 A. M. to help Dick. (This method is used only when Otis Olympic Games is really mad.)
- III. Having charge of ticket sale for Senior Sage Plays. This punishment did wonders in Paul Brownstein's case.
- IV. Bring genuine Mill Creek Water to School.

These and many others we bequeath to the class of 1933-1934, especially Valin, if he is a Senior then.

My Aim

To do the thing I know is true,
And should not be ashamed to do.
To help to make some others see
The thing that so appeals to me.

Home of The Crosley Radio Corporation

"You're There with a Crosley" has become part of the national language. Since the early days of radio, when crystal sets were still marvelous sensations, Crosley was identified with the manufacture of radio receiving sets. Today Crosley is not only a leader in manufacture of radio receivers, but is also forging rapidly to the front ranks of the electric refrigeration field with the new Crosley Shelvador Electric Refrigerator—the only refrigerator with shelves in the door for eggs, butter, bacon, and other small articles.
